

CUTTING EDGE

December 2012

*Maggie
sleighs
them all.*

Last month saw Maggie leading the pack with a demonstration on 'How to make Christmas Decorations'. A well structured talk covering shape and form as well as the turning process itself. One or two anecdotes would not have gone amiss however. I don't think there was even a mention of life as a nun or even, would you believe, all that time as a pole dancer!!! Ah well, there is always next time.

Bill, Brian and Julian did an excellent job with our new camera system, the quality of which seems to be well up to expectations.

Members' Work

DIY Dust Extractor

B&Q are selling off Mac Allister Hepa filters for £5 online (originally £31). They are around 7.1/2" in length and diameter. Do they fit your extractor?

Alternatively, dig out that old bathroom fan that you have been keeping for a rainy day. Box it in with that sheet of ply that you keep stubbing your toes on and Robert is a relative, before you know it you have your own 'Microfilter' extractor. Just screw the Hepa filter on the top and cover it with a bit of suitable material and that shed will never have been so dust-free.

Some members make lampshades by mistake. Others do it deliberately.

Do you want a commission?

Hanging name-boards wanted
One to hang with name on both sides.
Other to fix to gate.
Interested? If so contact Peter Castle
